

Abstract of the Disclosure

A surgical irrigation system is provided in which a novel system of connecting and/or supporting a pump to a fluid source reduces the possibility that the pump will 5 become disconnected from the fluid source by requiring that the pump be supported by a support to establish fluid connection.